

RMLS™ Broker Education Series (The Dalles)

An overview of the fundamentals of real estate economics, this course examines how consumers make decisions in changing real estate markets, the role of licensees in providing reliable economic data, the elements of a complete market analysis report, and the effects of the macroeconomy on local real estate market conditions. This class is worth three continuing education credit hours.