Realtor.com Results Series (Portland)

Real estate technology is about far more than identifying the latest tools. It's about identifying tried and true best practices used to leverage the tools to do something greater, something different. Learning about a new app is a start, but it is far better to understand the context in which top agents are currently utilizing new technologies to yield greater results.

Realtor.com invites you to attend the Portland stop in their Results Series. The goal of the Results Series is to bring real results to real agents, so they can make real impact in their markets and communities.

This session will be lead by Andrew Dorn and Kristi Kennelly, national speakers for Realtor.com.
